
3rd International Workshop on

RETHINKING CLUSTERS: PLACE-BASED INITIATIVES FOR INCLUSIVE, INNOVATIVE AND REFLECTIVE SOCIETIES

14th – 15th May, 2020

Universitat Politècnica de València & Universitat de València

Last year in Padova, and for the second time, a vibrant community of scholars met for discussing over critical issues and new trajectories of cluster research and the local and global scale of the clusters' sustainability transitions. In 2020, the third edition of the workshop will take place in Valencia (Spain) and, besides the main themes which also characterized the previous editions, a special attention will be given to how clusters contribute to inclusive, innovative and reflective societies. The workshop focuses on emergent issues related to the evolutionary trajectories of clusters, which encompass the major challenges of the globalization of production, the extension of the value chains, the opportunities of smart technologies in manufacturing and services, the transition towards sustainability and the challenge of the artificial intelligence, but also how clusters produce value for the society.

The contents of the workshop relate, but are not limited, to these themes:

1. Multinationals, clusters and global value chain
2. Technological change, innovation, networks and sustainable business models
3. Cluster life cycle, resilience and evolutionary trajectories of local systems
4. Clusters' transition towards sustainability
5. Entrepreneurship in clusters and local systems
6. Culture and creative industries in sustainability transitions
7. Sustainability transitions in the energy sector
8. Complexity theory and sustainable development
9. Intelligent manufacturing and services in the context of industry 4.0
10. Research methods on clusters, industrial districts and local systems
11. Industrial policy, clusters/platforms policy

Innovation is our focus. We encourage submissions from scholars in the social and scientific sciences, who are forging ahead with innovation strategies to shift towards digitization and sustainability. We welcome contributions that develop innovative approaches in concepts, theory, methods or analysis and have deep or broad implications to inform transitions to digitization and sustainability, and that use observational, experimental or theory-driven modes of inquiry, either at the micro- or meso-level unit of analysis.

Publications opportunities

We believe that the dissemination of topics and discussions of Rethinking Clusters are valuable to the academic community and policy makers. For this reason, we are organizing a selection of journals (Scopus and WOS-Clarivate) and edited books of international publishers (Routledge, Springer, etc.) in order to offer publications opportunities to those papers selected.
